

YOE SPEAKS FOR COLLEGE

Junior Institution Is Being Sought For Brownsville

The junior college fills a large gap between senior high school and university as the junior high school does between the elementary schools and the senior high schools. said Thomas J. Yoe, superintendent of the Brownsville public schools in a talk before the Kiwanis Club at noon Thursday.

Advantages of keeping boys and girls at home through attendance at a junior college such as the one proposed for Brownsville were pointed out by the educator in his talk. When sixteen-year-old Brownsville boys and girls leave home to go to an institution in another city they are thrown on their own moral responsibility at an early age and lose the moulding effects of their early environment, he said. The students in a junior college also do better from a scholastic standpoint in the opinion of Mr. Yoe.

Guarantee Deficit

Prominent business men have guaranteed to provide for any deficit that might occur in the first year. There would be only a slight deficit of 60 students enroll and a fee of $150 each is charged. It is estimated by those backing the move. At least a hundred students are sought.

It was pointed out that a student attending junior college in San Antonio where it takes approximately $700 a year to study in residence at the University of Texas or other colleges of senior rank or over $1,200 for the two years' work that could be done in a junior institution. This does not include traveling expenses and other items.

Mr. Yoe said that it is a physical impossibility for the Universities to take care of the large number of first year students adequately. There is a survival of the fittest where in a junior college every student on more of an equal footing.

It also was pointed out that the faculty for the proposed Brownsville college would be university trained. It is intended to hold one or two classes at night if the junior college is secured.

W. A. Risco reported on the trip made by many of the Kiwanians to Corpus Christi Tuesday and Wednesday, telling about the visit to the harbor there which will be finished by September 1.

S. C. Tucker, president of the school board, thanked the Brownsville voters for endorsing the $100,000 bond issue by a greater majority in the second election than in the first. A second election was required on account of a technicality which voided the first one held in

DOT MOTIF

By MME. LISBETH.

Central Press Fashion Authority.

Polka dots are so much the vogue just now in sartorial circles that womanhood almost appears to have broken out in an epidemic of dots. In the attractive little sport frock pictured, however, the dotted fabric is used only as decoration and very effective it is. It is a Patou model.

The material of this frock is natural cashmere. It is a two-piece model the skirt being finely pleated and the jumper trimmed with buttons. It is long sleeved, and a blouse effect is obtained by the printed material in big red and black dots which is bound sash fashion about the hips. A softly draped kerchief of the dotted fabric is draped about the neck in careless cowboy fashion—a chick finish for those who can wear it.

This is one of the fashions that women generally should be cautioned about as few indeed are those who can becomingly wear the kerchief in this fashion. If one has unruly hair the effect is apt to be a bit frowsy instead of smart. For the girl with sleek hair and slender form it would be as charming a bit of sports toggery as one would wish to see.

Georgette frocks developed in one-piece and two-piece types and of summery appeal are featured in a number of collections. Tailored styling characterizes these groups, which sponsor restraining treatment of trimming detail interpreted generally through using a contrasting color of the self material.

Skirts of these frocks adopt slanting to achieve fullness, posing inverted pleats at the side front, grouping narrow pin pleats across the front or extending them all the way across.

The jabot treatment is remarked on a number of these models used down the center front in double formation. Fancy tuckings and button trims also contribute trimming interest here. A blue georgette two-piece frock with sleeveless dropping shoulderline has white embroidered dots used sparsely in polka dot effect. Another dress has small patch pockets of lace.

The blouse silhouette is adopted for several models. This effect is realized through gathering the long-waisted bodice into a low waistline, girdled usually by a wide belt of self material. A frock in this group was of black georgette combined with vertical strips of white georgette.

BALDWIN HERE ON INSPECTION

Contract Being Let on New Station Here, M.P. Chief Says

Contracts are being let for the construction of the new $100,000 passenger terminal here, it was announced by W. L. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific Lines who was here last night on his annual inspection tour, and announcement of the contractor is to be made soon. Additional improvements on the Gulf Coast Lines this year will include heavier sections of rail laid on both the San Benito and Rio Grande Valley Railroad and the Mission line, 350,000 yards of ballast, and 75 miles of new 99 pound rail, Mr. Baldwin said.

Mr. Baldwin came to the Valley Tuesday night.

On Wednesday he made a complete circle tour of inspection leaving Raymondville early in the morning and going over the new line to Edinburg. From there the itinerary took the party to San Juan and Mission out to San Fordyce and Rio Grande City. Returning the inspection party covered all of the remainder of the S. B. & R. G. V. R. from Mission through Hidalgo to San Benito and on out to Rio Hondo. Thursday was spent in an inspection of the line up the Valley through La Feria, Mercedes, Weslaco and on to McAllen to Mission and from Harlingen to Brownsville.

President Baldwin is accompanied by E. P. Johnson of St. Louis, vice president in charge of finance and accounting, and E. H. McReynolds and E. P. Barnes, Jr., of the president's personal staff. He also is accompanied by officials of the Texas Lines of the Missouri Pacific headed by executive vice president H. R. Safford and including W. G. Choate, general manager, Horace Booth, general traffic manager, G. C. Kennedy, superintendent at Kingsville, C. S. Kirkpatrick, chief engineer, J. P. Roquemore, mechanical superintendent, L. R. Christie, master car builder, T. H. Levy, superintendent of traffic, and division and local officials including Wainmaster, D. D. Patrick, division engineer Tom McChord, and George Winsor of San Benito who is locally in charge of the S. B. & R. G. V. R. R.

From here Mr. Baldwin will return to St. Louis going by way of the S. A. U. & G. Railroad and the San-Special from San Antonio.

PHARR MAY ADD TO SCHOOL DISTRICT

(Special to The Herald.)

PHARR, Tex., June 25.—Petitions are being circulated in the Schultz school district near here, and in the Pharr-San Juan district asking that an election be called in order to add the Schultz common school district to the Pharr-San Juan district.

So far no opposition to annexing the new district, which is a rural section between Pharr and San Juan, and to the south of the highway, and it is believed that it will be annexed in a short time.

This will bring the total scholastic enrollment of the Pharr-San Juan district, which also includes Alamo, to close to 3000, and will make it one of the largest independent school districts of the Valley in point of enrollment as well as area.

J. Lee Stambaugh is head of schools of the district, and additional buildings are being put up now to accommodate increased attendance, a bond issue of $80,000 having been voted recently for additional buildings.
